Found—A Great Retail Store

PHIS new store in an old place required some time in which to find itself. But the discovery has been thoroughly made. Its place and destiny in this community are fixed. We have always disliked trash. New York has taught us to detest it. The merchandise is vital, and at this point the store has doubly found itself. Two Q's-quality and quantity—combine in the great force of the overflowing stocks.

Our buyers are not pinched for capital. We demand abundance and perennial freshness in their goods. This broad basis is one of the great foundations of our venture here. And the public has found the store. Store and public—a new mutual benefit society.
